

Tell us the differences between uncontrolled and controlled components

In React, controlled components refer to components that have their state and behavior controlled by the parent component. These components rely on props passed down from the parent component to update their state and behavior. Uncontrolled components refer to components that manage their own state internally.

BUY NOW

How to validate Prop

React PropTypes validation

The prop can be

PropTypes.bool : T

Boolean. PropTypes

should be a number.

prop should be a string

prop should be a function

The prop shou

